

To Whomever:

I want to voice my concern about efforts to stop satellite radio from providing instant traffic and weather. I live in a rural state where radio is not readily available in all places. Traffic reports are not a concern to me but weather is. Wyoming can go from 65 degrees to blizzard conditions at the drop of a hat. Seen it happen many times. For corporate radio to try to stop an important service is outrageous to say the least.

I pay for this radio service just as sponsors pay for corporate radio. In fact, the FCC should mandate that satellite radio provide traffic and weather and other needed services not prevent them from being broadcasted.

I am really really tired of corporations influencing decision makers. I'm the one who votes. Start representing my best interests, not theirs!

Teresa Deakins